

The Natural Choice

Trumpeter by Big Lake offers homeowners more than 300 acres of abundant greenspaces and natural areas

WE ALL NEED TO ESCAPE the hustle and bustle of the city every once in a while. Did you know there's a way to enjoy that escape in your own backyards? Trumpeter by Big Lake – developed by United Communities – is on the northwest edge of Edmonton and boasts an abundance of greenspace and natural wetlands while still being close enough to all city amenities, making it the place to get away from it all while still being within city limits.

Trumpeter is located just minutes south of St. Albert, and has more than 300 acres of rolling hills, mature woodlands and natural wetlands for residents to discover. The community is home to a wide variety of wildlife and more than 220 bird species, including the trumpeter swan (for which the community is aptly named).

Trumpeter has an almost endless network of trails for cyclists, runners and walkers alike, and those living there talk about the ability to enjoy the great outdoors year-round.

"Really, this community is best seen to appreciate, especially this time of year," says Simona Diep of United Communities. "You're surrounded by nature but still connected to all areas of the city, thanks to the Anthony Henday, 184 Street and Yellowhead Trail just minutes away. You're downtown in 20 minutes, at the airport in 30 minutes, in St Albert in 10 minutes."

Homeowners also enjoy all the lifestyle amenities of the area (both in St. Albert, and north and west Edmonton). There's shopping, schools, entertainment and professional services nearby, including many golf courses, recreation centres and parks.

Trumpeter has a large selection of homes to choose from, too, something for almost every budget and lifestyle. You'll find townhomes, duplexes, single attached-garage homes and estate homes in the community. With numerous lots backing onto greenspace, Trumpeter blends seamlessly into its surrounding environment with Horseshoe Lake, Big Lake and the Lois Hole Centennial Provincial Park bordering the community.

Come see for yourself the beautiful and serene location of Trumpeter, and join United Communities on June 11 from noon to 4 p.m. to celebrate the opening of Montorio Homes' duplex showhomes. Enjoy complementary food, drinks, a balloon artist, sparkle tattoos and enter a draw for one of two $250 prizes from Hole's Greenhouses.
